MOTHER, 2 SONS VICTIMS OF FIRE IN FARM HOUSE

A mother and her two young children lost their lives and her husband was seriously burned when fire, caused by a kerosene explosion, swept their farmhouse, one mile southeast of Abbottstown Thursday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Pearl E. Ayers, aged 28 years, died in the Hanover General hospital Thursday evening at 9:35 o'clock. She had suffered third-degree burns over the entire body and severe shock. She remained conscious until the time of death.

Fairl Weaver Ayers, aged two years, and his three-months-old brother, Kenneth Klingman Ayers, perished in their crib on the basement floor. Their bodies were so badly burned that identification was possible only by comparing the sizes of the remains.

The husband and father, Clarence G. Ayers, suffered third-degree burns on the head and face and second-degree burns of the body, and shock. His condition at the Hanover General hospital was given as fair.

Walter Ayers, a brother of Clarence, who made his home with the family, had his hair singed and had a blister burned on one hand.

The farm is located in both York and Adams counties. The dividing line, a small stream from which firemen pumped water, runs through the Ayers land. The house, however, is located in York county.

Preparing Supper

The Ayers family had spent the day with Weaver Ayers, another brother of Clarence, who lives on the adjoining farm. The family went home to prepare for supper shortly before 5 o'clock. The children had been in a sleepy mood when they left.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Ayers had wanted Fairl to stay with them for supper but he went home instead. The children were placed in a crib near the stove when they arrived home.

Mrs. Ayers prepared to make fire. Thinking there was no fire in the stove, she poured kerosene into the fire-box from a five-gallon can. The oil apparently struck fire embers and the fire followed the stream to the container and exploded.

Ayers was in the room but the spray of burning oil missed him. Seeing his wife a human torch, he dashed to her side and carried her from the burning building. He then attempted to return for the children who were sleeping in a crib not over a yard from the stove, but a wall of fire blocked his entrance.

Rescue Attempt Blocked

Walter Ayers, Clarence's brother, who lived with the family, was on the outside of the house, not more than 75 feet distant, when the explosion occurred. He ran to the house but by the time he reached the door the fire had gained such proportion as to make entry humanly impossible.

Weaver Ayers was called by his wife, Etta, who heard the explosion and saw the smoke. They rushed to the scene but were helpless to assist. Mrs. Etta Ayers rang the dinner bell and neighbors began to arrive.

The Abbottstown fire company was summoned by E. S. Cover, another neighbor. The firemen laid a hose line from a nearby creek and pumped water into the fire.

The house, a two-and-one-half story stone structure, was gutted. The farm on which the Ayers lived is composed of aproximately 85 acres and is known as the old Joseph Markle home.

Notified of the tragedy, Coroner L. U. Zech of York county went to the smoldering homestead and conducted an investigation. Later, he was called to the hospital after the mother had expired.

The coroner indicated his report would be death through accidental burns.

Mrs. Jane (Burleson) Ayers, widow of James M. Ayers, is forunate in having escaped a fate similar to that which befell her daughter-in-law and two grandchildren. She made her home with her son, Clarence. However, Thursday she had stayed at the home of Weaver Ayers for supper. She has been sickly and had she been in the house at the time of the explosion her escape would have been unlikely.

Came Here From South

The Ayers have lived in the farm for two years, coming from Bakersville, North Carolina, in September, 1935. Mrs. Ayers, before marriage was Miss Pearl Burleson. She is survived by her husband; her parents, C. P. and Lula (Hughes) Burleson, Bakersville, North Carolina; three brothers, Parly, Detroit, Michigan; Fairl and Doyles, Bakersville, North Carolina, and one sister, Ethel, Bakersville. Fairl Burleson is a twin brother.

Funeral arrangements for the mother and two children are incomplete.

Men's and Women's Bible Class, Fairfield Lutheran church, will hold a festival Saturday, July 17th, High school grounds.

2 EXPERTS URGE INSECT, DISEASE WAR BY GROWERS

President Harry M. Weigle of the Adams county Fruit Growers' association furthered plans for the entertainment of fruit growers from all sections of the state during a county tour here on July 28 by naming "round-up" and social committees from the county association at its regular July meeting Thursday evening.

Members of the committee named a month ago to make general arrangments for the tour of state fruitmen through Adams county following their annual sessions July 26 and 27 at Pennsylvania State college reported to the association Thursday evening and then the two additional committees were named to supplement the work of the original group. Volunteers to guide the visitors through county packing and canning establishments and over the battlefield also were sought.

Members of Committees

The members of the "round-up" committee follow: B. E. Benner, Charles E. Kuhn, John Peters, Donald Garretson, John D. Lippy, Harvey Raffensperger, Benton Fidler, Oliver J. Heacock, George Oyler, Robert Garretson, C. J. Murtorff, County Agent M. T. Hartman, Russell Grove, Foster Group, and Harry Haverstock. The social committee includes: H. S. Stoner, William M. AUDITORS OF TWO TOWNSHIPS FILE SCHOOL REPORTS

Auditors' reports of the financial conditions of two township school districts in Adams county were filed Thursday afternoon before Miss Viola M. Sachs, deputy prothonotary, at the county court house. The school district reports were from Mt. Pleasant and Oxford townships.

With temporary loans of $6,105 outstanding, Mt. Pleasant township closed the school year at the end of June with a balance of $76.92 in the treasury. The expenditures for the year amounted to $16,814.51 and receipts totaled $16,891.43.

The report shows that the township school district levied a 12-mill tax on real estate that was assessed at $631.129, and laid a per capita eax of $2 on the 863 taxable residents of the township. The amount of tax to be collected was $9,471.78. The collector was able to gather only $6,530.24 of that amount.

The largest item on the list of receipts was money received from the tax levy and the state appropriation of $4,600 was second. Under the expenses the instructional costs climbed higher than other items at $10,080.38. Teachers' salaries amounted to $8,000 of that sum.

The district claims assets of $4,-967.08 with nothing listed for school buildings and equipments. The only liabilities are the temporary loans. The township auditors, R. C. Topper, Francis Murren and Paul E. Ginter, signed the report.

Oxford Township

Oxford township school district closed the 1936-1937 year with a balance of more than $1,000 in the general fund and no temporary loans listed as outstanding, the township report shows. The summary of total receipts and expenditures shows sums of $5,432.81 and $4,263.37, respectively. The balance at the end of the year is slightly below that with which the district opened the year.

A real estate tax of only seven mills was levied on property with an assessed valuation of $370,053. The per capita levy on 368 taxables was $2. Tax collected last year is listed at $2,440.10.

The largest item under receipts was taxes. The state appropriation was $959.92. Teachers' salaries were only $1,603.71, but formed the largest part of the instructional costs. Auditors George H. Lawrence, Ezra V. Houser and John C. Kaiser signed the report.

Truck Pushes Two Parked Cars Together

A truck owned by Ellsworth C. Woodward, 636 South Washington street, and driven by his son, Paul, hit the rear end of truck owned by Walter Slaybaugh, Gettysburg R. D., parked on the "angle" side of Chambersburg street, pushed the latter onto the sidewalk and against a passenger car parked along side of it, about 9 o'clock Thursday evening. The only damage done was to the side of the passenger car, owned by H. L. Grimm, and that was slight. The mishap took place in front of the City Market.

Borough Officer Glenn Guise investigated and made no charges. Woodward told the officer he carried no insurance of any kind. He is a garbage and trash collector in the borough.

Yorker Arrested On Check Charge

Henry H. Fahs, York, was arrested in that city Thursday afternoon by Constable Glenn Guise on a charge of issuing a check with intent to defraud. The charge was filed before Justice of the Peace John C. Sheaer by C. W. Epley, Gettysburg, and involved a check for $50.50 issued May 17.

Fahs was released under bond posted before Alderman Owens, in York, for his appearance at a hearing before Justice Shealer on July 23.

PAYS $10 FINE FOR SPEEDING

Pennsylvania Motor Police delayed the high-speed homeward dash across Pennsylvania of George Tovey, Aliquippa, Beaver county, Thursday afternoon. At the rate of speed he claimed to have been traveling from Atlantic City toward his home near the Ohio state line he would have completed the trip in about six hours flat.

Tovey told the officer who arrested him that he had left Atlantic City about 2:30 o'clock. It was shortly after 5 o'clock when Motor Patrolmen, their attention attracted by the roar of his motor as he drove west out of New Oxford, picked up his train and gave chase for several miles.

He paid a fine of $10 and costs before Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer later in the evening on a charge of driving at 60 miles an hour.

2 SISTERS DIE, 9 OTHERS HURT IN EXPLOSION

Mechanicsburg, Pa., July 16 (AP)—Two young sisters died today from burns received in an explosion of the ammonia tank in the Rake-straw ice cream and dairy plant. Nine others were injured in the blast Thursday night.

The victims were Grace Moyer, 12, and her four-year-old sister, Cathrine. They had gone joyfully to the plant to get ice cream for a neighbor.

Thirty others, mostly employees, fled from the building to escape fumes from the exploded 500-gallon tank.

Charles Simmons of Mechanicsburg, was blown out of the door by the blast. A Harrisburg hospital said his condition was critical.

A Mechanicsburg fireman was burned on the hands, and seven employes were burned, or overcome by fumes and smoke.

Harrisburg firemen entered the plant wearing gas masks. They estimated the damage at $2,500.

5,131 ELECTORS REGISTER 2D DAY WITH TWO-THIRDS YET TO ENROLL

A total of 5,131 Adams countians were registered as voters Thursday, the second registration day set by the county commission, bringing the total registration to date to about 7,550 or almost exactly one-third of all the eligible electors in the county. Last fall's registration lists showed about 22,300 men and women on the voting lists.

Registering 47 more persons Thursday than the Democrats, the Republican party in the county has 48 more voters registered to date than the Democrats, an unofficial tabulation at the commission office this morning revealed. Voters' lists last year gave the Democrats a majority of over 1,000 in the county.

Although registration in Gettysburg Thursday was about equal to the enrollment on the first day, June 24, the figures for rural sections and most other towns in the county were far above those recorded on the June registration day.

More Farmers Register

Rain that prevented farmers from continuing their work in the harvest fields gave them an opportunity to go to the polls and register in order to be able to vote in the fall. Registrars sat at the polling places from 10 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 o'clock in the evening. This morning they made their returns to the registration commission office at the court house and received $5 for Thursday's duties and $2.50 for bringing in their report.

The lightest registration was recorded Thursday in the second district of Hamiltonban township where one Republican and 14 Democrats were enrolled. Heavy registrations were recorded in Franklin, Menallen, Conewago and Straban townships.

This morning Winfield G. Horner, clerk to the commission, learned that one registrar in the county had listed "from eight to 14 persons" in their home instead of at the polling places. Those cards were marked void this morning and the persons will be notified that they shall have to re-register. In another district a man who claimed to have power of attorney for his wife was allowed to register for her. That card also has been marked "void."

With only one day remaining for registration at the polling places, the number of voters who are coming to the commissioners' office at the court house for that purpose is increasing daily. There have been 171 Republicans and 95 Democrats registered there.

May Name Another Day

The commission is said to be considering seriously the naming of at least one more day on which the registrars are to sit at the polls, in addition to August 5. Another suggestion is receiving the attention of

Foes of Court Bill Reply to F.D.R.'s Demand for Passage

Washington, July 16 (AP). — A presidential injunction that it is "the duty of Congress" to pass judiciary legislation at this session drew angry, defiant replies today from foes of the court bill.

The armistice called after the death of Senator Robinson was shattered even before his state funeral at noon.

"We will select our own leader and dispose of the court bill in our own way without dictation from any source whatsoever," said Senator Van Nuys (Democrat, Indiana).

Senator Burke (Democrat, Nebraska) commented, "if the President is determined to have the matter brought back to life, he will find the opposition ready to welcome the contest."

Opposition Senators struck back vigorously at the President's statement that he was expressing his views before Robinson's funeral because "I find that advantage is being taken of what, in all decency, should be a period of mourning."

The tone of his statement and the replies of the foes gave a hint of the bitterness with which the Senate debate will be resumed next Tuesday.

Senator Burke declared the opposition's effort to avoid the controversy during the period of mourning had "not been followed by the other side."

President Roosevelt made his demand for action on court legislation in a letter to Acting Senate Leader Brakley, of Kentucky.

He followed it up with a conference Thursday night in which he and Barkley and other senators canvassed the legislative situation.

Only a few hours earlier four freshmen senators had discussed the court issue with the President, and according to word passed around by their colleagues, urged him to let the controversial measure go back to committee until next session. Their return to the capitol was followed by word that the advice might be accepted.

One of the four senators—Brown, of Michigan—came out for the compromise bill only last week. After his White House call he issued a statement placing himself back in the non-committal column.

Opposition leaders asserted they had enough votes to recommit the bill. But as a strategy conference, a division of sentiment developed as to whether the motion to recommit should be made, or the fight carried on for a decisive vote on the legislation itself.

TYRONE TWP. TO VOTE ON LIQUOR

Tyrone township has joined the list of districts seeking referenda on the issuing of beer and liquor licenses at the September primaries. Petitions bearing the names of 137 voters of that township were filed in the office of the county commissioners Thursday afternoon, the last day for the presentation of such papers. The petitions ask that the voters be allowed to decide on the sale of both beer and liquor in the township.

Similar papers have been filed by the residents of Biglerville, Butler township, Littlestown and York Springs. A local option on the question of licensing establishments for the sale of liquor only has been presented by voters in Bendersville and Menallen township. Beer is already prohibited there.

Files Petition for School Director Here

Charles C. Culp, York street, filed his petition this morning as a candidate for the Republican nomination for school director in the borough of Gettysburg. He is the first local candidate to file for any office. Because the office of school director pays no salary, there is no filing fee on the petition.

Glenn Jacobs, East Berlin R. D., paid $1 to file his petition as a candidate for the Republican nomination for road supervisor in Reading township. The paper was filed this morning at the court house. C. A. McCauslin, Aspers, filed his nominating petition as a candidate for the Republican nomination as assessor in Menallen township. The filing fee was $20.

BOOST PAY OF ROAD WORKERS

Harrisburg, July 16 (AP)—Maintenance workers of the Highway department were granted wage increases of five cents an hour.

Secretary of Highway Warren Van Dyke said the increase brought the pay rate to 45 cents an hour and, with other raises granted recently, added $3,000,000 a year to the department's payroll.

Van Dyke said any further increase would require additional revenue.

An average of 250 employes are engaged in maintenance work in Adams county, according to figures from the highway office here.

County C. E. Union Sponsors Outdoor Mt. Tabor Service

The public has been invited to attend outdoor vespers, sponsored by the Adams county Christian Endeavor Union, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock on the Mt. Tabor United Brethren church lawn. In case of rain the services will be held in the church.

The opening worship service will be conducted on the theme of "Worshipping God Through Nature." After the song "Fairest Lord Jesus," there will be a period of responsive reading and prayer. A trumpet solo will be given by Paul Lerew, York Springs.

The vesper message will be presented by the Rev. Frederick Lusan, pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church of Gettysburg. A saxophone and trumpet duet by Miriam and Paul Lerew will be followed by the singing of "Day Is Dying in the West." The closing prayer and benediction will be given by the Rev. Herbert Schmidt, pastor of Mt. Joy Lutheran church. The song leader for the service will be Professor Charles L. Yost, Biglerville.

The committee on arrangements includes: Nettie Raffensperger, Biglerville; the Rev. Mr. Schmidt, Mt. Joy; Chester Starner, Mt. Tabor; Vivian Brumgard, Littlestown, and Miss Ruth Scott, Gettysburg.

TRUCK HITS BRIDGE

The driver of an automobile convoy truck fell asleep at the wheel of his vehicle about 8 o'clock this morning and allowed it to run off the left side of the road as he traveled toward Gettysburg on the Harrisburg road. The truck was considerably damaged but the driver was reported to have been unhurt. The crash was not reported to the police.

generation of codling moths in county orchards had been noted about July 4 and that the peak of the moth population would be reached next week or the week following. He warned that in general the use of lead in spray materials after July 15 will mean that washing of the harvested fruit will be necessary to bring the spray residue down to the "tolerance" allowed by state and federal regulations. He advised growers who are equipped to wash their fruit to continue lead arsenate applications of standard strength to kill the second brood of the moths.

Experiment With Sprays

He reported finding some growers using spray materials in substitution for the lead but described their use as "experimental." Codling moths are present in many county orchards in numbers large enough to cause trouble, he said. Pepper also referred to discoloration and cupping of leafs of the terminal growth this season and reported the trouble to be general over this section of the state, stating that the cause was uncertain but might possibly be attributed to leaf hopper. He made mention also of the prevalence of arsenical injury to peach trees, which he traced to the third lead spray. He stated that although there is some yellowing and dropping of leaves, the fruit will probably stick. He mentioned safer substitutes for lead arsenate.

Powdered milk and soy bean flour were listed as promising materials for use as "spreaders" and "stickers" in apple sprays, lessening the danger of burning. Pepper stated that he is well pleased with the amount of scraping and banding that has been done in this county toward codling moth control this year.

Both Pepper and Kirby made mention several times of the highly favorable conditions for insect and disease spread that have been offered by the wet, warm weather of this season. "Insects and diseases are shooting at our fruit with heavier guns this year and we've got to increase our protection to meet the onslaughts," Doctor Kirby told the fruitmen.

Discuss Cherry Spray

Kirby reported that apple scab conditions in the county are improved over that of a month ago, particularly where the spray program was followed. The specialist devoted considerable time to a discussion of cherry spray methods in fighting leaf spot and brown rot. He listed as the first important spray for cherries as far as leaf spot control is concerned the petal fall spray with the pink spray being of little value in fighting leaf spot. Sulphur dusting and lime and sulphur spraying for brown rot was approved up to picking time if necessary. Thorough work was strongly advised.

The importance of spray applications on cherries after picking to prevent early defoliation which would reduce the set of buds for next year's crop was pointed out.

Carroll Miller, the Appalachian Apples secretary, reported that Virginia has pledged 4,000,000 bushels to the campaign this year, West Virginia nearly two millions and Pennsylvania has responded well to the first solicitations here. He spoke briefly of the 20-city advertising campaign that is to be launched this year.

He stated that crop estimates made at the time the grower pledges his support to the program are used only for setting the year's budget of expenditures and are not the basis upon which he makes payments. He pays at the rate of one cent a bushel on the apples he actually sells that grade U. S. Utility or better with the first half payment due November 15 and the remainder before February 15.

Expects Large Apple Crop

Frederic E. Griest, predicting a considerably larger crop of apples in this county this year than last, urged fruitmen to cooperate in the apple publicity campaign. Pointing to prospects of a poor export market, Griest saw an increased domestic consumption of apples as the only way to better prices for the fruit this year. John Peters told the growers they could not afford to fail to cooperate in the program of publicity and reported from 50,000 to 60,000 pledged in an afternoon's work.

C. J. Tyson and M. T. Hartman opened a discussion of the state fruit tour plans. The latter announced that county growers have been invited to attend a meeting of the Franklin county fruitmen at the Wertz packing house at Quincy, Franklin county, the evening of July 19, and told of plans for the county poultry tour on July 22 and the invitation to go with Franklin countians on a two-day jaunt into the fruit sections of West Virginia, July 21 and 22.

President Weigle announced that apple by-product manufacturers in the county have offered to provide a dinner for county fruitmen and their guests when Franklin countians are guests here later this summer and when Adams orchardists tour Franklin county. The offer was accepted by the association.

More than 60 fruitmen attended the session.

5,131 ELECTORS REGISTER 2D DAY

the commission members whereby additional or deputy registrars would be named for districts where large numbers of voters remain to be enrolled.

Action on the problem of registering the remaining 14,000 or more voters of the county probably will be taken next Tuesday when the commission gathers for a regular meeting.

Two new parties appeared on the registration lists Thursday. Six persons stated they were members of the Royal Oak party. Two were from Hamilton township, two from the second ward of McSherrystown and two from New Oxford borough. Two Socialists registered—one in Butler township and the other in York Springs. A Prohibitionist was enrolled in the third ward in Gettysburg and two were listed in York Springs.

This Couple Thrives on Coincidences: Same Birth Date, Parents Names, Etc.

REGISTRARS engaged in enrolling the voters of Adams county unearth strange facts by questions they ask.

Fred Eicholtz and Mrs. Pearl Wenk, Menallen township registrars, told this story at the court house this morning:

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Dodson, Aspers, appeared at the Menallen township voting place Thursday to register. While one was being registered by Mr. Eicholtz and the other by Mrs. Wenk it was disclosed that both Mr. and Mrs. Dodson were born on the same day, March 25, 1877—and that started the list of other coincidences.

Mr. Dodson was born in Johnstown of parents whose Christian names were William and Sarah. Mrs. Dodson was born in Middletown of parents whose names were William and Sarah.

Mr. Dodson had brothers named George and Will and so did Mrs. Dodson. Mr. Dodson's brother, George, died in an automobile accident and his wife's brother, Will, was killed in a train wreck.

When Mr. and Mrs. Dodson were married on February 11, 1904, he was a half-inch taller than she and she was a half pound heavier than he.

Each had a grandfather who was a hotelkeeper and who was engaged in hauling freight years ago. They traveled the same route —from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia —and each drove a "bell" team, the fastest and best team in the caravan.

"We discovered all these things about each other after we were married," Mrs. Dodson said today.

EXPECT YANKEES TO BREAK MARKS SET LAST YEAR

(By The Associated Press)

The Yanks are coming so fast they're even ahead of themselves.

The New York slaughter squad, specialist in making second-rate hash out of first-rate pitching talent, is not only on the way to another waltz to a pennant, but appears headed for a bigger and better year than the record-breaker of 1936.

When they finished rewriting the record books last season, it was generally agreed that the maximum in fence busting had been reached for some time to come—That another stretch of years would pass before the records would have another such general going over. But it seems now that murderers' row was only warming up.

For, taking this season's figures to date, and throwing in a few "angles" that don't appear on the surface, Gehrig and company are set to make more of a chopping block than ever of American league competition.

That fact stood out today as the Yanks coasted along on a 7½-game lead, while over in the National league the Chicago Cubs were once again at the head of the parade, by virtue of a 5-1 thumping of the Boston Bees' during Thursday's program—or that part which wasn't washed out.

As matters now stand, the Yanks have yet to enjoy their full varsity strength this season, what with injuries, ailments and spring holdouts. In addition, they've only recently shot into high gear — their surge dating to the start of their last home stand. Despite those factors, they have already smashed out 87 homers, thereby leading their record-breaking production for the same period last season, when they hit a total of 182 in 154 games. And they are boosting their league lead week by week.

Every man in the lineup climbed aboard Detroit pitching Thursday as the swat squad clubbed out a 13-6 victory over the Tigers, thereby stretching its undefeated streak to ten games—nine wins and one tie—their longest in four years.

The Cubs, meantime went out in front again as Tex Carleton re-asserted his jinz hold on the Bees in the only senior circuit contest that escaped the weather. The Giants, through enforced idleness, dropped back to second.

Except for the Yankees and the Cleveland Indians, who trounced Washington's Senators 6-2 as Hal Trosky poled his 19th homer, American league favorites found the going rough.

The sky-rocketing Boston Red Sox had an edge for five innings, but the St. Louis Browns put on a three-run surge in the sixth to come through 5-3.

A couple of youngsters, George Caster and Earle Brucker, combined to give the Athletics a 2-1 win over the White Sox, thus ending a string of 16 games in which the Philadelphians had failed to break into the victory column. Caster handcuffed the slugging Sox wth four hits, while Brucker belted in both of the A's runs.

EDDIE BRIETZ

Maranville May Manage

New York, July 16 (AP).—A certain big league club has its eye on Rabbitt Maranville for manager. . . Three guesses. . . The Yankee winning streak of nine straight is the richest since 1933 when the club won nine in a row. . . Hope the report that Mickey Cochrane isn't getting well quite as fast as the doctors hoped is all wet. . . . Mule Haas, of the White Sox, is one of the world's worst base stealers. . . His average over a nine-year stretch is one per season. . . . Reason Pacific Coast league fans aren't howling at Al Schacht's capers is that Al demanded a $7,500 guarantee for eight appearances. . . . . Tommy Loughran (who fought Farr) says if Joe Louis is in a hurry to get away from there the night he fights the Englishman, it won't go a round. . . .

More Forward Passes

Old Babe Ruth is having a hard time hitting .300 for Toledo in the American association. . . . Attention, Messrs. Frick and Harridge: The Red Sox played an exhibition game at Cumberland, Maryland, the other day. . . The umpire was Herb Bailey, a 23-year-old dye worker. . . . The Sox are unanimous in saying he has the makings of a really fine arbiter. . . Dr. Mal Stevens, New York university football coach, says you'll see more forward passing next season than ever before. . . Paul Dean's arm still puzzles the Cardinals.

Mrs. Pedro Montanez, wife of the lightweight star, wants a divorce . . . Gene Venzke, the runner, shoots golf in the low 70s and plans to enter the big tournaments from now on. . . Smart baseball writers say Tony Lazzeri, of the Yanks; Luke Sewell, of the White Sox, and Buddy Myer, of the Senators, are the three best managerial bets in the ranks of American league players.

Budge, Grant Selected for 'Cup' Singles

London, July 16 (AP).—Captain Walter L. Pate today designated Byran M. (Bitsy) Grant, of Atlanta, and Don Budge, of Oakland, California, to play singles for the United States against Germany in the Davis cup inter-zone tennis finals at Wimbledon. Budge will team with Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, for the doubles play.

The little Atlantan, who has not been playing up to his usual game because of a severe cold since he arrived in England, will open the semi-finals when he meets Baron Gottfried Von Cramm at 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. E. S. T.) Saturday.

Budge will play Heinrich Henkel as soon as the first match is out of the way and on Monday Budge and Mako will meet Von Cramm and Henkel in the doubles.

On Tuesday, Grant and Henkel will lead off in the first of the two final singles matches. Budge and Von Cramm will ring down the curtain on the interzone finals.

The winner in the series will go into the challenge round, meeting Great Britain for possession of the Davis cup at Wimbledon July 24, 26 and 27.

It had been thought Pate, the non-playing skipper of the American team, might name Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, for the second singles assignment.

Grant played in the North American zone finals against Australia, but was taken ill with a severe cold on his arrival in England and did not play as well as Parker did at Wimbledon. Parked was eliminated in the semi-finals by Budge, who trounced Von Cramm in the finals.

Budge teamed with Mako to win the doubles and captured the mixed doubles with Alice Marble. He is rated by English experts as the best American since Bill Tilden.

GETTYSBURG TO PLAY AT Y. S.

Two long winning streaks will be seriously threatened Saturday afternoon when the Gettysburg and Midway baseball teams journey to foreign grounds for Adams county league games.

Gettysburg's seven-game winning spree will be placed in jeopardy at York Springs. Although having dropped their last two games the York Springs team has shown vast improvement recently as the scores indicate. Midway barely nosed out York Springs 2-1 Tuesday after a hot battle.

Johnny Slaybaugh and Pittenturf are expected to be the opposing moundsmen.

Midway's undefeated nine will risk its 13-game winning streak at Arendtsville. The upper countians have dropped four of the last five games played but hope to snap out of it against Midway.

Bonneauville will clash with Fairfield at Fairfield and a good game is in prospect with the home team favored.

Still seeking its first victory New Oxford will attempt to overthrow Cashtown at New Oxford. Cashtown has been showing good form and should win.

The final game of the day finds Bethlehem at Bendersville with the much-improved Bethlehem team favored. Bethlehem has won four in a row.

RESIDENTS OF PEIPING FLEE; JAPANESE NEAR

(By The Associated Press)

Japanese officials at Peiping reported new clashes between Chinese and Japanese forces in north China today increased Japanese losses to 20 killed and 60 wounded.

They said the Japanese army was compelled "to take adequate measures" because of the intermittent fighting for the last 10 days.

Both sides were reported moving heavy reinforcements toward the Peiping arena of undeclared war where Chinese accuse Japan of attempting to provoke still wider conflict as a pretext for extending her influence there.

Japanese said 100 Chinese soldiers were disarmed at Anping, 28 miles southeast of Peiping, and other Chinese troops dispersed after an exchange of fire.

A Japanese official declared today Japanese casualties in north China had climbed to 20 dead and 60 wounded.

Two new deaths, he said, occurred Thursday in a clash between a Chinese force and Japanese troops at the Huangtsun station, eight miles south of Fengtai on the Peiping-Tientsin railroad.

Chinese reports said Japanese fortifications were being rushed in a wide semi-circle to isolate Peiping from the rest of China. Japanese, Korean and wealthy Chinese residents began to flee.

Peace negotiations were understood to be proceeding at Tientsin.

The Japanese war office disclosed at Tokyo it was informed of strong Chinese troop movements to support the 29th army at Peiping and Tientsin.

The war office, mobilizing on a national scale, began calling reservists to the colors.

Sir Huge Knatchbull-Hugessen, British ambassador to China, conferred with Chinese and Japanese at Nanking to "keep in close touch" with the situation but not to mediate.

IT'S ODD

But It's Science

(By The Associated Press)

Detroit—Virginia Bruce has been rated as possessing the most lovely profile in Hollywood.

Now comes a new plastic surgical ruler, which admits she's all the critics say, but shows that she has the extreme limit of tip-tilted nose.

On this ruler, devised by Claire L. Straith, M.D., of Detroit, her nose tilts upward at the tip by 25 degrees. The average tip-tilt in feminine noses that go in for beauty is about 20 degrees.

In men, for good looks, the plastic surgeons figure on a tilt ranging from "zero" to 10 degrees. The angle of tilt for good looks depends on convexity or concavity of the profile.

Dr. Straith's ruler is a "profilometer," a device by which a plastic surgeon can measure the nose he is building at all stages. The sculptor can see the nose he chisels. But the plastic surgeon works from the inside and until invention of the ruler had to guess.

Sundown Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. WOODCHUCK

"I HAVEN'T been gone very long," Willy Nilly said to himself, "and my Puddle Muddlers will still be asleep or else dozing in the sunshine after all the excitement and food and praise and fun they have just had.

"I think I'll walk across this field and speak to Mr. Woodchuck. He would not be one for Rip to meet. I remember the time Rip teased a woodchuck and came home with such a sore ear."

Willy Nilly walked across the field. A woodchuck was sitting up looking over the countryside—sitting so absolutely still that Willy Nilly might have mistaken him, in the distance, for an old stump or rock.

"Hello Woody Woodchuck," called Willy Nilly.

The woodchuck whistled and said: "Hello."

"Sunning yourself?"

"Yes, it's too nice a day to stay in the home nest or in my entrance ways. I wanted to be right out in the open. The family is off seeking some vegetables. You should really see the children. They are able to play and do some marketing now although when they were born, in our burrow apartment, they were as helpless as helpless could be.

"They're still easily frightened, but we've got a good safe home with several entrances which makes for safety. I made a fine one while I was about it. You can see what strong claws I have. They are excellent digging tools."

Then the woodchuck kept very still again. His hair was so course, his body thick and heavy. But he somehow fitted right into the rough field where he lived.

Tomorrow—"Willy Nilly's Question."

Today's Talk

—By George Matthew Adams—

SENTIMENT AND BUSINESS

HAS sentiment any deserved place in business? I would like to know what the average person thinks about this.

As for myself I believe in sentiment. I think that ideals are worth while. I would rather fail with ideals still intact than win without them. I have expressed this sentiment to various people and I find that many think I am old-fashioned and out of date. I wonder.

When I let sentiment get the better of my judgment and my so-called good sense, I have often taken it on the chin—to use a fighter's term. And often I have been temporarily counted out. It's made me do a great deal of thinking. Still I have been happier—even though I have lost materially in the move.

Sentiment is one of the great emotions of human life. It lights up the heart, stimulates the mind, and gives a spiritual cast to character.

But is it a good thing in business? That is what I would like to know. Every once in a while I lose a friend—trusting him or her beyond his or her depth. And often I have lost money-profit by letting sentiment interfere. And then there are always those to say what a fool I have been!

Well, so be it. When trouble comes, or sorrow, or calamity, or great loss, sentiment plays a big part, like a large brother. Everybody believes in it. It seems the all important thing in life then.

I have noted that when sentiment brings happiness to someone else, or directly affects him, it is highly praised. The only time sentiment falls down in the eyes of many is when it fails to bring about a material profit.

In one of President Wilson's important speeches he paused, then said: "The great things of this life are the things of sentiment." That is all I recall of that speech—but it is enough. I am glad I heard him say it.

If sentiment ruled business more we would not be in the unhappy state that we are with strikes and strife. The finest element in business is the human element, and you can't touch that without glorifying sentiment, thank God!

FLAME TRAIL

By MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: When Kay Crandon of the Lazy Nine loses her ranch house and barn in a fire, Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy her ranch and court Kay. She distrusts him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Hastings' cowhand, Scrap Johnson, molests Kay, but Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, rescues her. Later they shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings, hating both, murders Scrap, using Ted's gun. Ted crawls to an unknown shack where a girl named Marion nurses him through a week of fever and delirium. The gun is found and Sheriff Farley gets on Ted's trail.

Chapter 27

A NARROW ESCAPE

A faint call from the inside of the shack sent Marion running back. As soon as she stepped in the door and found Ted's dark eyes fixed on her, she knew she had really won the battle.

For the first time, his eyes gazed at her with a seeing look, and his pupils dilated with surprise.

"Who — what — where am I?" Ted tried to raise his head, but his strength failed him, and he sank back exhausted by even that small effort.

Marion crossed quietly to his cot and put a cool hand on his head. He still had fever, but she no longer encountered the hot, dry skin she had learned to expect through the past week.

"You mustn't try to talk yet," she warned him. "You've been very sick, but you are going to be all right now."

For some time he pondered this, his eyes fixed on her face.

"Where's Kay?" he said finally.

Marion shook her head. "I don't know. I can't tell you anything, so please don't use up your strength by asking questions. There is no one here but me.

"How—how long—?" His lids began to droop. Instead of answering, Marion lightly held her hand over his eyes, and in a few minutes his regular breathing proclaimed him asleep again.

Stepping to the outer door, Marion drew it to, leaving it slightly ajar and sagging on its hinges as she had first found it. Although she had been forced to break her promise to her father when she had taken in this young man, she had scrupulously kept her word in every other regard. Anyone coming unexpectedly on the shack would have unhesitatingly pronounced it deserted.

She moved quietly around the two rooms into which the cabin was divided, putting them in order while she waited for the water to boil on the single oil burner which was her only source of heat.

She had taken a chance on building a fire in the stove at night, but with the first coming of dawn she had put it out, so that no telltale smoke should betray their presence.

Humming a little tune in her relief that her patient was out of danger at last, Marion looked speculatively at the rough planks that boarded the windows on the outside.

If she could only take them off and let the sun stream in, instead of creeping through the cracks, it would be so much more cheerful! She started toward the door, with a sudden decision to obey her impulse. After all, it was ridiculous to stay cooped up this way! If any searching party had been out for this wounded puncher, it had evidently passed by this hidden spot long ago.

As she reached the inner door that led to a tiny vestibule, she suddenly stood rooted to the spot. Her hand clutched the door frame and her breath came fast. She listened with desperate intentness for a repetition of the sound she thought she had heard. A second later, she heard with unmistakable distinctness a shout in the distance, and an answering call somwhat nearer.

'Don't Make A Sound'

Pushing the inner door shut again, Marion darted to the oil stove and turned it out, then sat down by Ted's cot, her eyes fixed on him, watching for any sign that his sleep had been disturbed. With bated breath, she waited, while the voices drew nearer, her mind torn by indecision.

Should she make her presence known? If Ted had been still in danger, she would have felt that she must get what help she could to save him. But now that she was sure he was on the road to recovery, her first duty was to her father.

If the dread suspicion she harbored as to his activities was true, it would mean certain imprisonment and possible death for him if he were taken. To find her there would inevitably put any searchers on his track, and they would wait to take him when he came back.

She put one hand on Ted's forehead and felt his pulse with the other. There was no doubt but that his fever was down and his pulse much stronger.

A sudden shout outside made Marion start violently. She saw Ted's eyes open as a man's voice exclaimed, "Look at this clearing, will you? How'd we miss it before?"

Bending swiftly over Ted, Marion whispered with compelling intensity, "Don't make a sound! It is the one thing I ask, in exchange for saving your life!"

After one wondering look at her, Ted feebly pressed her hand in acquiescence, and together they waited in breathless silence, listening to the oncoming footsteps crashing through the brush.

"Say, that's old Ten Strike's hangout! Didn't you ever run across it?" A second voice answered the first. "His shanty there's been deserted a dozen years or more. Ever since the old boy kicked out."

"We'd better have a look at it," the first voice boomed. "Gaynor might—"

Marion felt the hand in hers jerk spasmodically.

"Aw, what's the use?" the other voice broke in, impatiently. "We're just wasting valueable time. If that guy had been able to get as far as this after bumping Scrap Johnson off, he could have made a real getaway. And believe me, he wouldn't have lost any time doing it! Besides, that shanty looks just the way it did the last time I saw it, a couple of years ago."

"Just the same, I'm going to have a look," the first one insisted stubbornly.

"Suit yourself. I'll be going on. After you finish looking over deserted real estate perhaps you'll catch up and help me catch the murderer."

Marion bit her lips and involuntarily gripped Ted's hand, as she studied his bewildered expression. Then she turned her eyes fearfully toward the door.

A heavy tread tramped up the two steps, and the outside door was shoved open. Holding her breath, Marion braced herself for the next moment, when the intruder would step across the space that divided the two doors, and push open the inner one.

She could feel him peering in the small darkened space, and hear him stamp an experimental foot on the rotted flooring. Then to her immense relief, he sprang back and shouted to his companion:

"Hi! Wait a sec! I'm coming!"

Marion could scarcely believe that she was hearing his retreating footsteps. For a full second longer, the dread tension held her. The sight of Ted's white face and closed eyelids, as he slumped back on the pillow, galvanized her into action, and she reached for some cold water to revive him.

Marion Believes In Ted

The distant footsteps, crashing through the brush, had completely died away, when Ted finally opened his eyes again, to find Marion gazing at him with solemn intensity.

"Is your name Gaynor?" she asked.

Ted nodded. "Yes, it is. But I'm as much in the dark about this murder talk as you are. You believe that don't you?" His eyes closed again with exhaustion.

"Yes, I do believe it," Marion answered, with conviction. "I can tell by looking at you that you are no murderer. And from what you said when you were delirious, I gathered that you'd been shot before you had a chance to aim, and your shot had gone wild."

"That's just the way it was," Ted nodded. "I don't remember anything after that. I can't separate delirium from reality. I could have sworn that I saw Josh Hastings bending over me once but that must have been plain nightmare. But where any murder comes in—" He suddenly raised himself on his elbow and demanded, "Why didn't you let me find out what in hell they meant by this talk of murder?"

Marion gently pushed him back. "Hush! You mustn't get excited! Whatever they meant, you're better off right where you are, until you're stronger."

"But you?" Ted fixed his eyes on her. "Why are you here, in hiding?"

Marion hesitated a moment, and a slow color came to her cheeks. "That's a long story," she said finally. "I'll tell it to you later. I have to stay here without any one knowing of my whereabouts, until my father comes back." She paused a moment, then added, "Not even the man I'm engaged to knows where I am."

For a long moment the two gazed at each other, then Ted wearily closed his eyes.

"I don't make head or tail of it," he murmured, in a weak voice, "but I know you're square. And I owe my life to you. So anything you say goes."

For a moment, he sank back in a half stupor, then suddenly sat up violently, and exclaimed, "But look here! I've got to go! My mother and sister are waiting! And Kay—" he fell back on his pillow in a dead faint before Marion could catch hold of him.

$15,000 Gems Stolen As Couple Eats Dinner

New York, July 16 (AP).—The dinner that Mr. and Mrs. William V. C. Ruxton, of Dorchester, England, attended Thursday night lost them $15,000—in jewels. They were stolen from their coupe while they dined at the Hotel Plaza.

The Ruxtons told police that a green calfskin bag containing the gems was left in their car when they entered the hotel.

Detective Lieutenant William Anderson said Mrs. Ruxton told him the jewelry was insured.

FARM LABOR SHORTAGE

Washington, July 16 (AP).—Government statisticians said today farm wages were the highest since 1930. Few unemployed men were seeking work on farms, they said, and farmers in most areas could not get an adequate supply of labor.

CONGRESSMEN SEEK PASSAGE OF FARM BILL

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Five petitions circulated today among members of Congress appealing for early enactment of farm legislation embracing the "ever-normal" granary and crop control.

The petitions expressed alarm over the possibility that next year's farm surpluses would bring disastrously low prices. Several administration leaders signed them.

The request for action at this session followed final congressional approval Thursday of a modified farm tenancy program and the introduction of a proposed "AAA of 1937" by Senator Rope (D-Idaho).

A bill along the same line has been offered in the House by Representative Flannagan (D-Va.).

Chairman Jones (D-Texas) of the House Agricultural committee called Pope's measure impractical and said he would have one of his own ready within a few days.

He previously had despaired of any vote before adjournment.

The suggested "AAA of 1937" contains Secretary Wallace's "ever normal" granary theory. It was sponsored by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, and endorsed in principle by Wallace.

The "ever-normal" granary contemplates the storage of crops during years there are surpluses, and their release for consumption during years of short yields.

The tenancy measure sent to the White House provides for the spending of $10,000,000 the first year, $25,000,000 the next and $50,000,000 each subsequent year.

It also authorizes the expenditures of $10,000,000 the first year and $20,000,000 each of the next two years to retire crop lands not worth cultivating.

Chairman Jones said the program was "only a drop in the bucket" compared with what is needed for the nation's 2,500,000 farm tenants.

Some 9,542,000 harmonicas were imported into the United States during the last year, Germany supplying 7,458,000 of them.

CONGRESS VOTES 7 1-2 BILLIONS FOR EXPENSES

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Congress has appropriated more than $7,500,000,000 this year for federal expenditures, committee records showed today.

This includes an estimated $133,298,999 for the Interior department, which the House may cut some before giving final approval next week.

The budget bureau recommended general expenditures of $7,834,036,159.59. The comparable appropriations for last year were $8,703,324,108.52.

Although an economy campaign resulted in holding funds about $300,000,000 under the budget bureau's recommendations, this year's appropriations would be more than $1,000,000,000 ahead of last year's had not congress voted $2,237,000,000 in 1936 to pay the soldiers' bonus.

Including miscellaneous appropriations, such as those to pay claims against the government, permanent and indefinite appropriations, the grand total approved by Congress last year was $10,336,399,272.65.

Not until the present session ends will the total of this year's miscellaneous appropriations be known. A third deficiency appropriation for unanticipated expenditures must be passed.

Using the estimate for the Interior department, appropriations for regular federal activities have aggregated $4,547,047,903.63 this year, compared with budget estimates of $4,885,513,517.25 and last year's total of $5,959,673,869.05.

The latter included the bonus payment but not the entire appropriation for farm activities.

MISTAKEN KINDNESS

He paid his way from day to day.
He never let his son be worried.
If doubt or trouble barred his way
At once to help the lad he hurried.
"I would not have him know," said he,
"The hardships that belonged to me.

"I would not have him toil as I,
From poverty and want I'd save him.
No wish of his would I deny."
So everything he asked he gave him.
It seemed that father fond to please
To give his boy a life of ease.

But as the years went swiftly by
It painted that doting father deeply
To hear his care-free youngster sigh:
"I think I'm getting things too cheaply.
I wish that I could share the joys
Which give a thrill to poorer boys.

"I'd like to make a few mistakes.
I'm tired of being just a duffer.
I'd like to bear the hurts and aches
That all the worth while fellows suffer.
I'd like the right to tell my son
Some day about the things I've done."

3 DAUGHTERS SEEK DAD'S BAIL

Lansdowne, Pa., July 16 (AP)—Three daughters of Albert R. Knight, 55, tried today to raise $10,000 bail to release him from jail at Media, where he was held on charges of attempting to murder them to collect $120,000 in insurance.

Knight was arrested on a charge of arson because of a fire at his home, May 28. The murder charge was filed Thursday by William R. Toal, assistant district attorney of Delaware county.

Toal said he learned Knight had taken out policies aggregating $60,000 face value, with a double indemnity clause, six months before the fire.

The daughters insured were Ruth, 23; Sue, 19, and Mary, 17. With their brother, David, 15, they escaped from their burning house.

A fourth daughter, married and living in Honolulu, was named beneficiary.

Toal, who declined to disclose her name, said "I don't know why he did this, but it doesn't alter the aspect of the case in the least."

At the time of his arrest on the arson charge, Knight denied that he was implicated. He said he was in Washington on a business trip.

Auto Inspection Period Ends July 31

Harrisburg, July 17 (AP)—Motorists must have their automobiles inspected by July 31 to avoid penalties.

The inspection period started May 1. It is the last set by proclamation. Two periods a year were established by the recent legislature.

The fine for driving uninspected cars is $10 and costs.

There were 1,634,515 registered passenger cars in Pennsylvania at the end of June, and 252,984 commercial vehicles. During the last inspection period, 73.5 per cent of the vehicles were found in need of adjustment, state records show.

Flashes of Life

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOYALTY A LIABILITY—

Greenville, S. C.—A dog's affection proved very troublesome this time. Deputy Earl Daniel and other officers sought John Cape on warrants charging house breaking and deadly assault. They searched high and low, but he couldn't be found. Daniel, noticing the hunted man's dog barking and running to and from a nearby field, investigated. Cape was found hiding in a furrow.

PROSPERITY NOTE

Hoquiam, Wash. — Washington auto drivers are getting fatter. Mary Baker, notary public, said drivers applying for licenses this year are five to ten pounds heavier than during the last application period two years ago. Some had gained as much as 25 pounds, and a few have lost weight, she said.

WHAT, NO LUNCH?

Los Angeles—Ham-on-rye, pretzels and popcorn will be on the patron, not on the house, if the California Restaurant association has its way. Directors of the association have voted to demand the state equalization board, which controls California bars, banish free edibles.

FALL GUY

Kansas City—John Bell had to borrow a cigaret when he got to the hospital. Bell dropped his pipe from the porch of his home. Leaning out to catch it when a boy tossed it back, he fell and broke his arm. Brought to the hospital, he had forgotten the pipe.

Clipper Completes Atlantic Round Trip

Botwood, Newfoundland, July 16 (AP).—The Pan-American Clipper III landed today at 7:52 a. m. (5:52 a. m., EST) after a flight across the Atlantic from Foynes, Irish Free State.

Capt. Harold Gray, commander of the survey flight of the Atlantic Airways, set the clipper down in Botwood harbor just 16 hours and 27 minutes after leaving Foynes for the return leg of the round trip. It was three minutes ahead of the unofficial schedule Captain Gray had set for his ship.

The British flying boat Caledonia made the same trip in 15 hours and nine minutes a week ago while the clipper was flying east.

HAS RELIEF PLAN

Boston, July 16 (AP).—Disclaiming "immediate political ambitions," James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, summoned 229 Massachusetts editors and publishers to conference this afternoon to propose making this state a testing-ground for a "definite plan" to absorb relief workers into private industry.

Baltimore

The local hog market continued to lose price ground yesterday, salesmen reporting the principal depressing factor as being an almost negligible inquiry for that class of live stock. Current price schedule called for a mostly 20 cents lower price list and packing sow 30 cents under Wednesday's levels. Good and choice 170-210 pound weights were listed at $12.45a12.70; practical top, $12.70. Comparable 220-250 pound weights were bargained for at $12.12.45; 260-300 pounds quoted from $11.40a 11.95; 140-160 pounds light lights from $12.25a12.50; 120-140 pounds from $11.50a 12, and good grade packing sows from $10.10a10.60. Hogs from "doubtful" areas are not represented in above prices.

Trading in spring lambs continued on a slow basis that was around steady with full measure of recent downturn, as indicated by opening sales, although the market had not yet made full development at nearly noon time, the time of this release. A few small lot of lambs brought $10.25a 10.50 and indications and bids pointed to a $9.75a10, or possibly $10.25, price spread for bulk of available supply. Bucks were discounted $1 under comparable grades of ewes and wethers. Plain and medium grade throwouts were cleared mainly at $7.50a9. Odd head of fat shorn slaughter ewes, not many all told, brought steady prices, selling from $ downward.

Available supply of cattle yesterday was estimated at 800 head, including 425 that had been held from earlier sessions for yesterday's outlet. Calves were estimated at 275, hogs at 750 and lambs at 750.

Despite moderate to light receipts in the cattle division such numbers as were on hand proved further burdensome on current demand and trading in general ruled sloy. Opening steer sales were mostly considered 50c. lower than Monday, and even with a lower set of prices scaleward movement was sluggish and a number of loads were still in first hands at nearly noontime. Cows sald just about in line with the recent downturn on that class and bulls found buyers rother indifferent and sales weak to 25c. lower than early this week. There were not enough heifers to merit much mention. The few that were on hand included in the general slow and weaker tendency. All this weakness in demand hinges on a very slow movement of dressed product into consumptive channels.

In yesterday's cattle market several loads of good grade grassers and steers that had fed on a grain-on-grass diet and weighed 1,050a1,200 pounds cleared at $10.75a12.40 and a few head of around 885-pounds weights brought $12.50. Most plain quality straight grassers and some of the better offerings were unsold at the time of this release and prospects pointed to a similar downturn of those. Odd head of heifers sold up to $10. Frequent sales of good grade cows were found at $6.50a 7.50, bulk of plain and medium grade fat cows noted at $5a6 and low cutters and cutters $3.50a.50. Plain and medium grades of bulls were sold from $5.25a6.75, when buyers could be interested.

Vealers sold about in line with Wednesday on early rounds yesterday and then a weaker tendency cropped out in trading on that class. Good vealers went at $9.50 to $10, mostly around $9.50 after opening rounds. Plain and medium grade sorts were bought at $7a9, culls down to $6 and inferior 'skip" below $6.

STOCK MARKET

New York, June 16 (AP)—A drop of more than two points in Chrysler chilled the stock market today and early gain of fractions to a point or more were reduced, cancelled or replaced with losses. United States Steel in the first hour pushed above 117 to a new high for the move. It was then thrown for a light loss, but recovered a major fraction around noon. Dealings were quiet. Some utilities took a turn for the better, while rails continued to reflect doubts caused by the deadlock in carriage wage negotiations.

POLICE MAINTAIN ORDER

New York, July 16 (AP)—Heavy police forces established a 2-mile "protective zone" along the month-old Brooklyn shipyard strike front today to maintain order at the Robins Drydock and repair company. Company officials said 1,300 men out of the normally employed 1,700 went to work on the 7 a. m. shift. Police estimated the number at 1,000, with about 200 pickets lining the route.

Discovery of fluorspar, 98 per cent pure, has been reported in the Chinati mountains in the Big Bend section of Texas.

NO CLUES FOUND IN SHOOTING OF DOCTOR IN R. I.

Providence, R. I., July 16 (AP).—A well-known homeopathic obstetrician, Dr. George W. Webster, died today on the operating table of a hospital, his lips sealed on the mysterious circumstances surrounding his shooting in the early hours of the morning.

As police hurried to his home, summoned by the doctor who crawled mortally wounded through two rooms to a telephone, Patrolman Charles H. McNamara reported the physician told him:

"Don't look for clues now. Get me to a hospital. I'll tell you about the shooting later."

Questioned shortly after by Detective Raymond Fenner, who asked who shot him, the doctor again replied:

"I don't know. Get me to a hospital."

But at the hospital he died without opening his lips.

He was struck down by two pistol bullets, one in the stomach, the other in the shoulder. A third shot went wide.

Fenner, examining the abdominal wound in the doctor's own house, said Doctor Webster coolly told him:

"That one has gone through the liver."

Police officials said they were without a single tangible clue to the mysterious shooting.

Dr. Ralph Purvine, of Rhode Island hospital, ambulance surgeon, said Doctor Webster told him that it was an attempted robbery.

The police found $300, however, in the physician's clothing.

Deputy Superintendent James Cusick, of the detective division, theorized that the man who shot Doctor Webster followed him into the front vestibule after the physician had unlocked the door, and that when he heard a noise, the physician turned around.

Although he said Doctor Webster said the man then ran through the house and escaped, there was no sign of disorder in the house, and a back door was shut when police arrived.

NATIONAL GUARD TRAINING CAMP OPENS SATURDAY

Indiantown Gap, Pa., July 16 (AP)—A Cavalcade of motor trucks will rumble into this picturesque section of Pennsylvania's Blue mountains Saturday, carrying thousands of the state's citizen soldiers to their military reservation for two weeks of training.

The encampment will be for the twenty eighth division, Pennsylvania National Guard, with its 700 officers and 8,383 enlisted men.

Under the watchful eyes of U. S. Army officers, they will fight mythical battles, plot advances against enemy positions, draw up fortifications and repel hypothetical attacks.

By night the 213th coast artillery anti aircraft regiment will rake the sky with machine guns and searchlights.

Overhead, observation planes of the 103rd squadron, commanded by Major General Victor Dallin, will join the tactical maneuvers, acting as the eyes of the ground troops, relaying messages and coordinating artillery fire.

On the ranges the boom of artillery field pieces will resound in the deep mountain valley.

Tactical problems for infantry will be worked out by the 55th and 56th brigades.

A network of wires strung by the signal corps, will carry messages from headquarters to outlying posts just as it would at battle time.

An advance detail came to the camp late in the week to pitch the tents and make ready for the arrival of the main detachment.

High spot of the two week's drill will be the division review for Governor George H. Earle and Major General Edward C. Shannon, commander of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

The reservation of thousands of acres at the foot of Blue mountain, 20 miles from Pennsylvania's capital, is becoming recognized as a major military training center.

In addition to Pennsylvania's citizen soldiers, those of the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia, units of the Marine corps, the regular Army and the Reserve corps, have trained there.

Thousands of men worked through the winter and more thousands were added this spring to rush to completion the buildings, sanitary facilities, the grading and other improvements for a modern training ground.

In addition to the training ground between Indiantown and Swatara Gaps, the reservation includes another 6,000 acres between Blue Mountain and Second Mountain This area is used for artillery practice.

China's imports of cigarets, which averaged 7,310,000,000 annually during the 1926-1930 period, receded to 75,000,000 last year as a result of increasing domestic production and tariffs.
